I would like you to know that I am not in favor of granting the rate increase or the surcharge requested by Arizona Public Service. The small school district of Skull Valley, AZ spent $8,574 during the 2004-05 fiscal year on electricity. The 20% increase would have amounted to an additional $1,715. That translates in to the same as a tax rate increase of $.2199. The homeowners in this small school district would have to pay the 20% increase on their private electricity bill but they would also have to pay an additional $.2199 property tax in order to cover the increase for the school's electricity. Of course, all of my figures are estimates based on their 2004-05 expenses but I'm sure that you can see that the huge impact would just not be reasonable.
