Dear Sir,

The Arizona Power Service is requesting a considerable rate increase which it claims is based on increased fuel costs and expansion requirements. I actually felt that an increase was justified although I felt the percentage of increase requested was exorbitant.

On Monday April 10th I happened to hear a Paul Harvey broadcast in which it was brought to my attention that APS in the last year had paid out 29 million dollars in bonuses, 2 million dollars in travel, and 410,000.00 dollars in sports tickets.

I would like to know how a company whose business is public service can justify any rate increase when it apparently had excess income in the amount of $31,410,000.00 which rather than spending it to serve the public it just gave it away! If APS has money for bonuses, travel, and sports tickets than it certainly doesn't need to take more of my hard earned money to pad its coffers!

Sincerely,

Bona M. Clark
