Thanks to Algonquin for good water service

Published on Friday, July 06, 2007

Thanks! Who says that these days?

I just wanted to take a minute of the community's time to express my feelings about the Algonquin Water Company. As of the time Algonquin assumed responsibility and management of the extremely poor water systems which were previously owned and operated by John McLain we have had nothing but excellent service. Not one time has there been a water outage since Algonquin assumed management/ownership.

I watch the trucks driving up and down my street all week and weekend checking on the system and continuing to upgrade the system/mess we've been faced with for years. I'd like to publicly thank all the employees and management of Algonquin for the outstanding job they are doing, their professionalism and genuine concern.

We as individuals and sometime communities find it very easy to point out negative issues within our community but find it extremely hard to identify the hard work of people who actually make a positive change. Algonquin has made a tremendous positive change in our quality of life and stress levels. Think about it, have you read the paper lately (in almost a year) and seen where Hereford or Whetstone residences have been out of water for days on end ... No! Let's recall some of last year's articles that made front-page news, Hereford residences out of water for five days. The Algonquin Water Co. assumed management since September 2006 and ownership since the end of February 2007.

In a quest to keep this message short and to the point, I'll end by saying this ... Algonquin, you are truly a blessing to the Hereford residence to whom you provide service and are greatly appreciated for all you've done! Thank you for such a great job!

Dean Smith
