RE: Rain Valley Ranch Development

The undersigned of Algonquin Water Services (AWS), operator of Northern Sunrise and Southern Sunrise water systems in Cochise County, AZ was approached by Rain Valley Ranch in August 2006 to enquire whether AWS would have any interest in being the water provider for the proposed development in Santa Cruz and Cochise Counties. AWS was informed that a short term pump test had been conducted on an 8 inch well located southwest of the intersection of Highways 90 and 92, near the western margin of the Upper San Pedro Basin. It was reported to AWS that the well was approximately 500 feet deep and that the yield appeared to be in the order of 350 gpm. AWS was informed in August 2007 that a drilling program was underway to deepen and test the well located southwest of the intersection of Highways 90 and 92.

There has been no correspondence since August 2007 and AWS is unaware of the current status of the well and the proposed Rain Valley Ranch development.

Yours very truly,
ALGONQUIN WATER SERVICES INC.
