NOW, THEREFORE, the Commission, as administrator of the Securities Act, hereby enters this Order.

I.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Wachovia Securities admits the jurisdiction of the Commission and Wachovia Capital Markets consents to the jurisdiction of the Commission for purposes of this Order. Neither admits nor denies the Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law contained in this Order, and each consents to the entry of this Order by the Commission.

2. Auction rate securities are long-term debt or equity instruments that include auction preferred shares of closed-end funds, municipal auction rate bonds, and various asset-backed auction rate bonds (collectively referred to herein as "ARS"). While ARS are all long-term instruments, one significant feature of ARS (which historically provided the potential for shortterm liquidity) is the interest/dividend reset through auctions that occur in varying increments of between 7 and 42 days. If an auction is successful, investors are able to exit the ARS market on a short-term basis. If, however, an auction "fails," investors are required to hold all or some of their ARS until the next successful auction in order to liquidate their funds. Beginning in February 2008, the ARS market experienced widespread failed auctions.

Marketing and Sales of ARS to Investors

In connection with the sale of ARS, some Arizona investors state variously that they securities;

were told by Wachovia Securities and its registered agents that ARS were:

		그는 것을 가 있는 것 같은 것 같
8	a.	just like cash;
9	b.	same as cash;
10	U.	same as casil,
11	C.	safe as cash;
12	d.	same as money markets;
13	e.	safe as money markets;
14	f.	cash equivalents;
15	g.	short-term adjustable rate
16	h.	cash alternatives;
17	i.	completely safe;
18

liquid at any time; and/or]. 19

> k. always liquid at an auction.

Although marketed and sold to investors as safe, liquid, cash-like investments, and although the 21 ARS market had, in fact, functioned for more than twenty years with virtually no auction failures, 22 ARS are actually long-term instruments subject to a complex auction process that, upon failure, can 23 lead to illiquidity and lower interest rates. 24

25 4. Wachovia Securities further fostered the misconception that ARS were cash-like 26 instruments by providing account portfolio summaries to certain of its customers that listed ARS as

"cash equivalents." In fact, ARS were not "cash equivalents" and full liquidity was only available at an auction if the auction was successful.

5. Although Wachovia Securities sold ARS as conservative, safe, and liquid investments to its investors until February 2008, Wachovia had information that several auctions had failed in August 2007 and early 2008, before the mass failures in February 2008. During this same period of time, Wachovia failed to inform its customers purchasing ARS after such auctions began to fail that certain auctions would have failed had Wachovia or another broker-dealer not entered support bids in those auctions.

6. Although Wachovia knew, or should have known, of the inherent risks and the recent volatility of the ARS market, only minimal information regarding the ARS market was provided to Wachovia Securities' retail ARS customers.

7. Wachovia and its registered securities agents were, or should have been, aware that the ARS market was suffering from increasing failures and liquidity issues, and they should have disclosed those facts to investors who were purchasing auction rates after such issues arose. Based on these facts, Wachovia engaged in dishonest and unethical practices in the marketing and sale of ARS. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 44-1961(A)(13), these practices constitute grounds to revoke Wachovia's registration. These practices included, among other things, the following:

a. Wachovia told some ARS investors purchasing ARS after the market disruptions began to occur that:

ARS were cash equivalents;

ARS were completely safe; and/or

iii. ARS were liquid at any time.

i.

ii.

b. Wachovia was or should have been aware that the market for ARS was becoming illiquid, yet Wachovia Securities continued to market and sell ARS to investors.

4

Decision No.

	8. The interest rates on ARS are reset periodically through the auction process. In the e	event that there is insufficient demand for a particular issue and an auction fails, the interest ra
r	resets to a "maximum rate" or "failure rate" as defined in the offering documents for that particul
i	ssue. Typically, this maximum rate would be higher than prevailing market rates in order
C	compensate ARS holders who are unable to sell their positions and offer an "incentive" to indu ł	buyers to return to the market although in some cases, particularly for student loan auction rate
t	the maximum rate might be lower than the prevailing rate.
	9. In December 2007, with the encouragement of its underwriters, the Missouri High ]]	Education Loan Authority ("MOHELA") sought and secured approval to waive its maximum ra t	for certain issues of ARS. Absent such waivers, the ARS issued by MOHELA would not ha been allowed to reset at interest rates high enough to clear auctions.
.	10. As a result of the maximum rate waivers, certain MOHELA ARS issues reset to higher rate for a brief period after the waiver was implemented. However, due to a feature of tho issues that caps the average interest rate over any given one-year period, the interest rates reset 0% after the expiration of the waiver period. The ramifications of this maximum rate waiver we not explained to Wachovia Securities' customers who subsequently purchased MOHELA ARS.
	11. Wachovia Securities engaged in dishonest and unethical practices by not adequate explaining to individual investors who purchased ARS with maximum rate waivers, among oth things, the following:
	a. that the ARS interest rates could not be reset at a level that would preven failed auction absent the maximum rate waiver; and
	b. that the high interest rate allowed by the waiver would expire at the end the waiver period unless extended by the issuer.
	5 Decision No. 70896

Pursuant to A.R.S. § 44-1961(A)(13), these practices constitute grounds to revoke Wachovia Securities' registration.

ġ

Failure To Supervise Agents Who Sold ARS

12. Although ARS are complicated and complex products, Wachovia Securities did not provide its sales or marketing staff with the training and information necessary to adequately explain these products or the mechanics of the auction process to their customers. During the course of investigations, on-the-record statements taken from Wachovia Securities' registered agents demonstrated that these agents lacked a basic understanding of the functionality of the ARS products and the auction rate market.

13. Many of Wachovia Securities' registered agents were not adequately educated in the ARS products they were selling and did not know where to look for information to bolster that knowledge. Wachovia Securities failed to provide timely and comprehensive sales and marketing literature regarding ARS and the mechanics of the auction process. In addition, Wachovia Securities failed to review account portfolio statements sent to its customers to ensure that they reflected accurate information regarding ARS.

14. Wachovia Securities' failure to provide sufficient training and information concerning ARS and the market environment in which they were sold was not limited to one or two agents, and is therefore indicative of Wachovia Securities' failure to ensure that its registered personnel provided adequate information regarding ARS to its customers.

Wachovia Securities failed to reasonably supervise its employees, which is grounds for revocation of its registration under A.R.S. § 44-1961(A)(12):

a. failing to provide adequate training to its registered agents regarding ARS by, among other things:

i. failing to provide timely and comprehensive sales and marketing

3	the ARS product; and
4	iii. failing to ensure that its agents were selling ARS to individual
5	investors for whom they were suitable; and
6	b. failing to review account portfolio statements sent to its customers to ensure
7	that they reflected accurate information regarding ARS;
8	c. failing to review ARS transactions in accounts of customers who needed
