“While we decline to adopt AWC’s proposal in this case, we believe it is appropriate for the Commission to consider what measures may be needed to incentivize conservation at regulated water utilities. The Commission has opened a generic docket and conducted workshops to consider this issue for electric and natural gas utilities and believes similar efforts are appropriate for water utilities. The Commission shall open a generic docket to further examine the issues raised in this proceeding by AWC’s conservation adjustment proposal and more broadly examine disincentives to promotion of conservation at Arizona’s water utilities and methods to mitigate these disincentives.”
