- 2. The subject matter of the proposed rule:
The proposed rules are revisions to Articles 2 and 16 of the Arizona Administrative Code and, taken together, provide the details needed by stakeholders to arrange their affairs in preparation for implementation of the retail electric competition beginning in January 1999. The rules are designed to allow consumers to select the entity from whom to purchase various services and to allow electric providers to reach customers who until now have never had the opportunity for such choice.

These revisions were adopted by the Commission on an emergency basis because the safe, efficient, and reliable provision of electric service during the transition period to full competition is in the public interest. Because notice and participation were impracticable at the time of adoption of the emergency rules and because the rules also govern the structure and processes of retail electric competition beyond January 1, 1999, the Commission is filing a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking to allow for wide public participation and comment before adopting the rules on a final basis.
