SIRS:

I am against any rate increase at this time because the current rates are high enough for consumers to pay! People who are on low income or on Social Security have a hard enough time now to make ends meet for food, medication, and electric bills, etc.

Forgive my writing, I'm on Social Security, and at 71 yrs of age, I can't write all that well any more! The cost of living has gone sky high. For example I'm to get a $19.00 cost of living increase on my social Security Jan 2013; however Medicare premiums are going up too and I already pay $99.00 per mo now. So, I might as well figure the cost of living increase doesn't even exist! People can't afford this increase!

Jerry W. Arnold
