Subject: Renewable Energy

What is the ACC thinking on its position regarding renewable energy. It is troubling the ACC is eliminating incentives for solar energy and dropping the mandate that requires TEP and APS to use renewable resources at 15%.

Other states are looking at several different areas to use renewable resources. We have a home in another state as well as Arizona and this is the direction they are moving. Why would the ACC not expect this from utilities, and any residential customers that would look at solar or some type of renewable resource.

I simply do not understand the long term thought process of the ACC. It seems very short sighted to me.

Sincerely,

Karen Metzinger
