RE: Net Metering Costs to Non-Solar Customers (Docket No. E-01345A-13-0248)

It has come to my attention that as an energy consumer I am being punished because of the current net metering policy. I do my best to not use power I don't need. I turn the light off when I leave the room. I don't sleep with the TV on. I pay my bill on time. Yet, I'm being punished for not using solar panels at home and it's not fair.

It's completely unfair that I have to subsidize solar panel customer's use of the system. My thought is that if their electricity bill is minimal each month, they can afford to pay for the share of using the utility company's grid that we all pay for.

I am asking that you look into this matter and put a policy in place that holds all consumers to the same standard and requires everyone to pay for the system they use.

Thank you

Donald Michaels
