Re: Docket # E-01345A-13-0069

DOCKETED BY

Commissioners;

I was very suspicious of the "smart" meter microwave radiation measurements that were in the "smart" meter study recently completed by the Arizona Department of Health Services (ADHS).

So for $135 new, I bought the exact same type of measuring device that was used in the study and compared it with other, more costly and accurate measuring devices. I videoed the results of my comparisons.

As you'll see in my video, the Tenmars TM-195 used in the ADHS study is grossly inaccurate. Like the study itself, it's so bad it's scandalous.

As I wrote in my report on the ADHS study, "In a cynical sense, the Tenmars was the perfect choice for the ADHS study – a pitifully inadequate meter for a pitifully inadequate study."

To watch my video exposé and see the proof, search YouTube for Video Exposé - The ADHS "Smart" Meter Study Is Grossly Inaccurate or use this link:

Sincerely,
