Dear Sirs

I am sending you this article so that can see that net metering is not a system that transfers cost from solar to non-solar customers as UNS electric would have you believe.

Peak demand charges is a system devised by the electric companies to negate the things we were promised for going solar and enhance their profits with our loss.

Outages, are a way of life where we live (three to four a month). Everything in my home is plugged into a surge protector, Yet UNS wants to keep raising the rates, I guess as a way for rewarding themselves for never spending the money to improve the service.
